“Alienation and crime: from the mainstream to critical criminological perspectives”

Dear Colleagues,

I hope this e-mail finds you well. I would like to invite you to participate in the new call for papers for the special issue titled “Alienation and crime: from the mainstream to critical criminological perspectives” that just has been announced by the “Archives of Criminology”.

For applying to this special issue we encourage authors who research links between alienation and delinquency/crime both from mainstream and critical criminological perspectives to share their findings with readers. The editors are compiling a special issue on mainstream and critical approaches to alienation-crime nexus. We are interested in both partisan and nonpartisan research or accounts on the relations between alienation and crime in macro, mezzo and micro levels of analysis. We welcome papers exploring and demonstrating the ways alienation penetrates the fabric of macro-level social institutions and, on the micro-level, the lives and minds of individual actors.

As guest editors for this issue serve: Mahmood Shahabi (Shiraz University, Iran), Piotr Chomczyński (University of Łódź and University of Applied Sciences in Piła) and Roger Guy (State University of New York at Oswego, USA).

More information including the rationale of the issue you can find in an attached file.

The abstracts that express the interest of participation in the issue should be submitted by May 31st (through the online form: <http://ankietyinppan.pl/index.php/577543?lang=en>) and selected authors should be ready to send full papers by the end of October 2022. All papers should be prepared in English. The issue will be published in June 2023.

Feel free to spread the information about this call to anyone who might be interested in submitting a paper.

With the best regards

Witold
